

Today's Introit takes from the prophecy of Isaiah, chapter 45, vs. 8 & Psalm 18:2. We identify them scripturally then understand them in relation to the feast. Verses in bold print mark Introit inclusions.

Isaiah, “Yahweh is salvation,” the first of the four great prophets (Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel), was born in 760 BC, of a priestly or noble family of Jerusalem. After the Judean King, Uzziah, died (742 BC), Isaiah received his prophetic call while praying in the temple: I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted,... Then flew a seraphim to me having a burning coal which he had taken with tongs from the altar. He touched my mouth and said, “Behold, this has touched your lips; your guilt is taken away, and your sin forgiven.” And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, “Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?” Then I said, “Here am I! Send me.” (Is 6:1-8). Henceforth, Isaiah proclaimed the downfall of Israel & Judah for their infidelity, the Babylonian exile & return, and reformation of life, intermixed with the heavenly dew of Christ’s coming. In 686 BC, Isaiah was sawn in half for correcting his son-in-law, King Manassas.

Chapter 45 is summed: “A prophecy of Cyrus, as a figure of Christ, the great deliverer of God’s people.”

8. Drop down dew, ye heavens, from above, and let the clouds rain the just: let the earth be opened, and bud forth a savior: (and let justice spring up together: I the Lord have created him.)

Drop down dew... regards, as it were, heaven, the region above this life, sending down the divine nature; let the earth be opened... regards the earth receiving this divine Rain and adding something of itself, a created human nature, which produced, as we know, our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, true God and true man.

Psalm 18 is paraphrased: “The works of God show forth his glory: his law is greatly to be esteemed and loved.”

2. The heavens show forth the glory of God, and the firmament declares the work of his hands.

The heavens, which are plain to all, wonderfully prove the beauty of the Law which is less obvious. The heavens show forth... St. Bellarmine says the heavens, by their grandeur & beauty, especially show God’s glory. Heavens and firmament mean the same thing i.e., the whole celestial plenitude: sun, moon, stars, etc., as in Genesis: “and God called the firmament heaven.” Again, a humble study of the heavens gives us an idea of the majesty of their Maker & the perfection of His Law.

The Feast of the 4th Sunday of Advent ends our Christmas preparations, leaving us with two presents beneath our spiritual Christmas tree. The Epistle beckons us to leave judgments to God: judge not before the time, until the Lord come...; the Gospel invites us towards self-perfection: Prepare ye the way of the Lord... Let us open these treasures and use them wisely so that, when He comes again, we may be found worthy of His eternal gift of heaven.
